To whom it my concern,

I am writing in support of Marton Institute, Blackpool regarding the noise levels at the beer festival in August. I believe that you have received four complaints, one I believe as far away as Marton Mere. I, myself, live on Hemingway, Blackpool and heard nothing. I appreciate that if you live within the close proximity that you could be affected and I am led to believe you received a complaint from close by which I understand must be looked in to. Although when you consider how many houses are in the area of the Marton Institute, I find this a very small percentage in the area.

The Marton Institute is a magnificent institution giving a fantastic amount of pleasure to many of the residents of Marton and beyond. Organising fun days for children and adults alike outside on the grounds in the summer months also charity days i.e. Help the Heroes and help for the sick children and for three nights in August, a fantastic free entry beer festival with live bands, all finishing at 11 o'clock on the dot, which I feel is not unacceptable and is within the school holiday time, therefore not disruptive to children at school time. When you consider that Blackpool Council gave a huge thumbs up to the recent fantastic Rod Stewart concert which noise levels could be heard by half of Blackpool.

I hope that when a decision is made on the Marton institute license, you look into the good work Marton institute does for the community and find their in their favour to hold events in the future.

Yours faithfully
